Rose House offers semi-independent accommodation for young people in Hartlepool aged 16-25 who are estranged from family, care leavers, at risk of homelessness or homeless and in need of housing.

Rose House has seven properties available including 3 one-bedroom flats, a 2 bedroomed bungalow, two rooms in a shared flat (communal living) and a flat for emergency accommodation on a temporary basis.

Eligible young people may stay at the project for up to two years subject to individual circumstances.

Each young person at Rose House is allocated a key worker to develop a personalised support plan, which can include help with:

- money management, including opening a bank account (if one isn't held);
- employability support to help secure training, education or employment;
- tenancy management and being a good neighbour;
- registering with health care professionals;
- support to access a wide range of community based services;
- cooking, cleaning and routines.

There is a communal area for residents to socialise and Rose House is staffed 24 hours a day.

What are the move-on options?

The service works closely with social landlords, the Council's housing team and private landlords to offer a choice of housing options when residents are ready to move on.

Staff at Rose House offer ongoing support to help prepare you for a successful transition to independent living, as well as information about community based services and other organisations that can help you establish your new home.
